Rhetorical work in English is required throughout the entire course and much stress is laid upon this part of the student's work. In Greek some portion of the New Testament and Greek History are required in addition to the above; in connection with Latin, Roman History. A fuller statement in regard to all departments will be found in another part of this catalogue.

Ohio University.

ORIGIN OF THE UNIVERSITY.

The existence of the Ohio University was provided for as early as 1787, in the purchase made from the Government of the United States by the Ohio Company of Associates. By the contract between these two parties, two townships of land were set apart for the purposes of a University, and placed under the care of the Legislature of the State. The University was organized under an act of the Legislature passed in 1804. Its Trustees are appointed by State authority, and the Governor of the State is, ex officio, a member of the Board.

LOCATION.

Athens, the seat of the University, is situated in the southsastern part of the State. It is easily accessible from the east and west by the Cincinnati, Washington & Baltimore Railroad and its branches; from the central and Northern portions of the State by the Columbus, Hocking Valley & Toledo, and Ohio Central Railways. By these routes it is about one hundred and sixty miles east from Cincinnati, and seventy-five miles southeast of Columbus.

The lover of natural scenery cannot fail to be charmed with its picturesque surroundings, The winding valley of the Hockhocking and the wooded hills beyond present a series of lovely views from the University, while the wide prospects. as seen at certain seasons 'from some of the neighboring summits, are seldom surpassed in quiet and varied beauty.

The site of the University buildings is a spot of unusual attractions. The buildings occupy a slight elevation extending east and west across the grounds. On the north front lies a park of about four acres, which contains a grove of fine forest trees, skirted along its northern limit by a row of magnificent elms. That portion of the grounds lying in the rear of the buildings is set apart for recreation.

THE BUILDINGS.

These are four in number. The main building was erected in 1817, and is the oldest college edifice, as the University itself is the oldest institution of learning, northwest of the Ohio river. This venerable structure, made dear to many by a thousand strong and tender associations, and to many more by the names of eminent men who have studied or taught within its walls, has recently been remodeled, and, while retaining the same general proportions, is, to all intents, a new building. It is admirably planned and well finished. With its slate roof and massive cornice, its lengthened windows and handsome colors, its convenient arrangement and pleasant appointments, it will compare favorably, in appearance and in adaptation to its purpose, with most college buildings in the west.

The two wing buildings contain the dormitories, and will accommodate about sixty students. The rooms afford cheap and comfortable lodgings for students who, for any reason, prefer dormitory life to residence in a family. The west wing contains, also, the preparatory recitation room, the young ladies' study, and one large room till recently used as a chapel. Since the completion of the new chapel, the last named room is devoted to other purposes.

The new building stands on an eminence at the western side of the campus. In design it is unique and elegant; the material is brick with cut stone trimmings. Its dimensions are forty feet in width by seventy-six feet in length, and two stories in height. It has two fronts, one on the west, towards Court street, which is the principal street in the town, and one on the east, toward the main building. The first floor contains the chapel or assembly hall, two corridors and stairways, and a waiting-room. The second floor contains two society halls, with a committee-room attached to each. This building has been occupied since the Fall of 1883.

STATE APPROPRIATION.

For several years the General Assembly has made appropriations for completing and finishing the buildings and improving the grounds of the University. These sums, added to what has been received from other sources, give the institution a greatly increased power of usefulness. The wise and liberal policy of the State, now steadily pursued through several years, presents encouragement for still more energetic efforts to increase the patronage and to extend the benefits of the University. These benefactions of the State ought to meet with a prompt response from those for whose advantage they have been made; and it is confidently expected that each coming year will bring an increased attendance of students.

COURSES OF STUDY.

Such courses of study have been adopted as experience has proved to be best adapted to the purposes of liberal education. The classical course, in fullness and arrangement, will compare favorably with that of the best institutions. The philosophical course is so arranged as to meet the wants of those who may prefer to study modern languages and English branches instead of Greek, for which French, German and English are substituted.

Those who are able to attend for a short time only may take a select course, provided the studies they may wish to pursue are such as they are qualified to take up with advantage. But no student will take a study to which he has not been assigned, or discontinue a study, without permission obtained from the faculty.

No students, except Seniors and those taking a select course, are permitted to recite in the Senior studies of the third term, and the Senior examinations of the third term are limited to the regular Senior studies of that term.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

The several libraries connected with the University have been combined and placed under one management, for greater convenience. The number of volumes exceeds seven thousand, of which about one thousand are new. The united library affords to students the means of reference to standard authorities in almost every department of knowledge, and an opportunity to become acquainted with the best literature of the present and former times. The reading-room, adjoining the library, is supplied with about fifty periodicals—American, English, German and French. It is open daily for reading and reference, thus affording to students the means of maintaining a general acquaintance with current questions and events, as well as with the literature and science of the day. The most important books of reference are also kept in the reading-room, where they are always accessible.

APPARATUS AND CABINET.

Much valuable apparatus has been procured for the various departments of mathematics, astronomy, physics, and chemistry ; and these subjects are illustrated by experiments. A new chemical laboratory has been provided, which contains working tables supplied with gas and water, and will afford every facility for practical work.

Several thousand dollars of the recent State appropriations have been expended in the purchase of apparatus for the department of chemistry and physics. In the selection, special reference has been had to laboratory work by the students themselves. Additions are being constantly made to the apparatus. A fine set of surveying instruments of the most approved kind has recently been purchased for the use of students in field work. The cabinet affords important aid in the study of mineralogy and geology. But we are greatly in need of further contributions thereto and to this end the assistance of the friends of the institution is greatly desired and earnestly solicited.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are two literary societies in the University—the Athenian and the Philomathean. The members have opportunity to exercise themselves in declamation, composition, and debate, and to become familiar with the modes of conducting business in deliberative assemblies. The work of these societies form a valuable part of college training.

The new halls, on the second floor of the chapel building, are now completed and occupied. They are convenient, symmetrical, tasteful and elegant. The members of the societies have been able, by the generous aid of former members, to furnish them in a manner befitting the place and the purpose.

LECTURES.

A course of lectures is delivered every winter by members of the Faculty and others, on subjects of general interest. These lectures are usually well attended by citizens no less than students and are a means of much useful and interesting information. It is intended to make these lectures more frequent in the future than they have been in the past, and, if possible even more profitable.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION.

Instruction is given both by recitations and lectures. The constant aim in both is to awaken interest in study, to aid in the acquisition of knowledge, and to develop the powers of thought and communication.

Lectures are delivered by the President during the second term on psychology, and during the third term on the history of philosophy; by the Professors of ancient classics on the language, literature and history pertaining to that department; and by the Professor of natural sciences on chemistry, geology and astronomy.

The classes in botany and geology make excursions into the surrounding country, in order to collect specimens and derive scientific knowledge from original sources. The class in surveying has practice in the use of instruments by actual work.

ADMISSION.

Applicants for admission must present satisfactory testimonials of good character; and students coming from other colleges must present certificates of honorable dismissal.

Examinations for admission are held on the day preceding the beginning of the college year, and on the first day of the second and third terms of the year. Candidates will, therefore, be present September 7, 1885, December 1, 1885, and March 29, 1886.

Candidates for advanced standing are, in all cases, examined to ascertain their thoroughness and proficiency; but certificates from other institutions will be accepted for the amount of work done in the classics.

Ladies are admitted to all departments of the University on the same terms and under the same conditions as those prescribed for young men.

DISCIPLINE.

Entering the University will be considered a pledge to obey its rules and regulations. These are few and simple, appealing to the student's self-respect and sense of personal responsibility.

A record is made of the daily work of each student. When the standing of the student as shown by this record and the examination, falls below a certain mark, he must review the study.

Records are also kept of each student's deportment. A low standing on either record is followed by private admonition, and notice is given to the parent or guardian.

Whenever the conduct of a student is such as to indicate that he is unfit to be a member of the University, either because of immorality or because of habitual neglect of his college duties, he will be dismissed. But in the latter case his parents will first be requested to withdraw him, and if not withdrawn within a reasonable time he will be dismissed.

RELIGIOUS INFLUENCE.

Students are required to be present at prayers in the chapel every morning, unless excused by the Faculty, and to attend public worship on the Sabbath; but the choice of the place of attendance is left with the student or his parents. A student's prayer-meeting is held once a week, at which attendance is optional. The University is not sectarian, and no effort is made to inculcate the doctrines of any particular creed or denomination; but the utmost care is taken to promote sound and healthy religious sentiments.

DEGREES.

The degree of Bachelor of Arts is conferred on those who finish the entire classical course and pass satisfactory examinations.

The degree of Master of Arts is conferred, on the payment of ten dollars, upon every Bachelor of Arts of three years' standing, who has sustained a good moral character and has pursued professional or scientific studies during that period. The application must be made in person or by letter at least one day before commencement.

The degree of Bachelor of Philosophy is conferred on those who complete the philosophical course.

The degree of Master of Philosophy is conferred on Bachelors of Philosophy of three years' standing, on the same conditions as those for the degree of Master of Arts.

Tuition in preparatory department or normal class, per term,	$ 6 00
Tuition in college department, per term,	10 00
Contingent fee in either department, per term	3 00
Rent of room in University, if taken, per term,	$3 to 4 00
Tuition per year in the preparatory department, if paid in advance,	15 00
Tuition per year in the collegiate department, if paid in advance,	25 00

All tuition bills must be paid during the first thirty days of the term. No exceptions can be made to this regulation.

One student from each county of the State is admitted free of charge for tuition. Any one desiring to have the benefit of a county scholarship, must receive his appointment from the Auditor and Commissioners of the county, and obtain from them a certificate stating that he is of good moral character and an actual resident of the county from which he is sent.

All students, whether they hold scholarships or not, are charged room rent and contingent expenses, and are held liable for any damage that may be done to their rooms.

Board can be obtained within a convenient distance of the University at $2.75 per week. By forming clubs students may board at $1.75 per week. Those students whose circumstances require it are allowed to board themselves, by which means their expenses may be still farther reduced.

The actual cost of an education at the University will depend very much upon the disposition and habits of the student. The necessary cost is very low—as low as at any other institution affording equal advantages. It is earnestly recommended to parents not to furnish their sons or daughters with extravagant means. The scholarship and character of a student are often injured by a free indulgence in the use of money. Whatever is beyond a reasonable supply exposes him to numerous temptations and endangers his success and respectability.

DETAILED STATEMENT OF THE DEPARTMENT OF INSTRUCTION.

MENTAL, MORAL, AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

THE PRESIDENT, ASSISTED BY ONE OR MORE OF THE PROFESSORS.

MENTAL AND MORAL SCIENCE.

This division includes Psychology, Logic, Ethics, Metaphysics and the History of Philosophy. The work is done by means of recitations, discussions, essays by the class, and lectures by the Professor. The aim is to furnish a sound elementary and general knowledge of these subjects, and to train the mind to habits of reflective thought.

1. Psychology is the basis of philosophical study, and a knowledge of its leading facts and principles must precede the successful pursuit of any of the other branches included in this department of thought. It is taught five hours a week during the first term of the Senior year, and four hours a week during the first part of the second term. Porter's Elements of Intellectual Science, Parts I., II., and III., has for a number of years been used as a text-book in this department, but a liberal use has been made of the works of other authors. The coming year Sully's Outlines of Psychology will be used as the text-book.

2. Logic is taught in connection with Psychology, but at a different hour, during the first term of the Senior year. The parts of logical doctrine, method, the laws of thought and their application in both deductive and inductive reasoning, receive careful attention, and copious examples are presented for criticism. The intellectual processes involved in reasoning of both kinds are studied in the third part of Psychology; and the primary bases of reasoning are investigated in the study of Metaphysics. The instruction keeps in view the acquisition of a comprehensive scientific knowlege of the subject, and the attainment of the power and the habit of clear, accurate and forcible reasoning.

3. Ethics is taught during the second term of the Senior year, with Calderwood's Hand-book of Moral Philosophy as a text-book, and Lecky's History of European Morals, Herbert Spencer's Data of Ethics, and others for references. The leading modern theories of morals are examined and discussed, while practical ethics is presented in the form of lectures.

4. Metaphysics occupies the last part of the second term, succeeding the subject of Psychology. The work of the class is based on Part IV. of Porter's Elements of Intellectual Science. The topics of investigation are such as intuition and the theories of intuitive knowledge, the criterion of truth, being, the nature of things, causation, final cause, the finite and the infinite, and the absolute. As much attention is given to these subjects as the time allotted for the study will permit.

5. The History of Philosophy. Schwegler is read by the students, and discussed in class four hours a week in the third term of the Senior year. The works of the thinkers whose opinions are under review are frequently consulted. Especial attention is paid to the historical relations of the systems examined. Essays are required from the students on particular phases of philosophical development, and on those systems which have produced the deepest influence on philosophical thought.

POLITICAL SCIENCE.

Political Economy is studied by the Juniors, who recite it three hours a week during the second term, and two hours a week during the third term. President Chapin's recent edition of Mayland's Political Economy is the text-book, with Adam Smith's Wealth of Nations, Mill's Principles of Political Economy, Carey's Social Science, and others, as works of reference. However, the increased attention now given this theme by the public, the numerous books and popular articles that are constantly coming from the press, and especially its relation to the larger subject of sociology, renders it impossible to teach to any great extent from the text-book.

The Constitution of the United States is studied by the Seniors in the third term. Its growth and development, and especially its relation to that of England are made prominent subjects of investigation. Andrews' Manual is used as a general guide, but Cooley's Principles of Constitutional Law, Hallam's Middle Ages, chapter VIII, Hallam's Constitutional History of England under index titles, "Constitution" and "Constitutional Law," Lieber's Civil Liberty and Self Government, and other standard works are used for reference.

MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

PROFESSOR HOOVER.

The course in pure Mathematics embraces ten terms, distributed as follows: Algebra, 4 terms; Geometry, 2 terms; Trigonometry and Surveying, 2 terms; Analytic Geometry, 1 term; Calculus, 1 term. Of these, four terms, including Algebra to Series and Plane Geometry, are required for admission to the Freshman class; the remaining six terms are included in the College Department, covering the Freshman and Sophomore years.

In teaching the pure mathematics, especial attention is directed to the value of the study as a means of training the logical faculties. Constant stress is laid upon the steps of reasoning which underlie the various processes; and it is insisted that the principal business of the college student of mathematics is to apprehend these clearly. The power to apply the principles is tested by a wide range of exercises drawn from various sources and adapted to the capacity of the student.

A part of the Spring Term in the Freshman year is devoted to the subject of land surveying and to other applications of Trigonometry. This work is important as giving good examples of the vast utility of mathematical science in its practical applications.

The appropriation made by the Legislature included an item of four hundred dollars to provide the mathematical department with surveying instruments. These instruments, including a transit, level, rod and other necessary appurtenances, have been purchased and are in regular use in this department.

By a recent modification of this course of study, the work in applied mathematics includes a term in Mechanics. The subject of Astronomy has been transferred from the department of Natural Science to the department of Mathematics.

GREEK.

PROFESSOR SUPER.

It is the aim of this department not only to teach students to read the authors commonly read in colleges, but also to make them acquainted as far as possible with the literature and life of the ancient Greeks. In teaching the language, especially that of Homer, constant attention is called to the words related to other languages, particularly Latin, German, and English, and the laws of consonantal mutation are explained. Especial prominence is given, as the student progresses, to the following points : first, forms ; second, vocabulary ; third, relation to cognate languages ; fourth, literature and history. The ear is regarded as equally important with the eye in the interpretation of words. When possible some entire work of an author is read, as it is thought a more lasting and more satisfactory impression will thus be made upon the mind of the student than by the use of selections only.

It is a well established principle in the study and teaching of the ancient languages that they should be made as far as possible, the basis of a study of antique life. The Greek language embodies the experience of the most remarkable people of antiquity, a people whose achievements in literature, in the arts and in government have been, and doubtless will ever continue to be, inexhaustible sources of profitable instruction. It is here claimed that a study of the Greek language together with all that should properly be taken in connection therewith will contribute the most important elements of a liberal education.

Before admission to the college class in this department the student must be fairly familiar with the Greek grammar, and have read three books of the Anabasis and three books of Homer's Iliad.

During the past year, the Freshmen read about one hundred pages of Herodotus in Goodwin's Greek Reader, nearly the same number of pages in Winans' edition of Xenophon's Memorabilia, and the Apology and Krito of Plato entire.

The Sophomores read the Clouds of Aristophanes, the Agamemnon of Aeschylus, excepting some portions of the chorus, and three hundred chapters of the De Corona. The same Greek text is not generally read during two successive years.

Works of reference : Hadley's and Goodwin's Greek

Grammars, Goodwin's Greek Moods and Tenses, Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicon, Anthon's and Smith's Classical Dictionaries, Autenreith's Homeric Dictionary, Ginn & Heath's Classical Atlas.

RHETORIC AND ENGLISH LITERATURE.

PROFESSOR SUDDUTH.

The intention is to make the study of Rhetoric subserve not only the practical purpose of forming a correct style in composition, but also to make it the basis of a critical study of English literature. To this end, after some preliminary study of the general principles of Diction and Construction, the student goes directly to the work of the masters in the several departments of Description, Narration and Exposition, studies their models, and strives to analyze their methods. The results of these studies are compared and discussed in the class-room, are embodied in theses, written by the students, and are finally put to the test in the work of real composition.

The foundation for the work in English Literature is laid in the study of Rhetoric, and the same method substantially, is pursued. The object is to make available in the class-room the rich resources of this literature, both for discipline and for culture. The students read critically standard literature of the present and the past. They compare and discuss in class their respective estimates of both the style and the content of individual authors, and from this work they deduce the conclusions which they afterwards elaborate into formal critiques, to be again presented to the class, and discussed and compared with the judgments of authoritative literary critics.

The work of the department is concluded with a historical survey, in order of time, of the various fields and epochs passed over during the course of study, thus unfolding to the student the process of the germination and growth of the literature of his native tongue.

NATURAL SCIENCE.

PROFESSOR MEES.

The instruction in this department is designed to cultivate in the student habits of observation, give him a general knowledge of the methods employed in the study of natural phenomena, and suggest the practical application of the information thus gathered. In the Preparatory Department the study of Physics and Geography, in the general course, and elementary Physics and Zoology in the Philosophical course, introduce the pupil at once into the circle of the Physical and Natural sciences.

In the Sophomore year one term is devoted to Physiology. The instruction in this department is made as practical as possible, by such demonstrations with the microscope, dissections, and experiments, as will enable the student to understand the structure of the human body and the processes going on within it. Lectures are given on special subjects, as Mental and Physical Hygiene, etc. During the third term of this year, Botany will engage the attention of the student. Structural and Physiological Botany will be fully illustrated by use of the microscope, while in Systematic and Descriptive Botany, the field and herbarium will furnish material.

In the Junior year the study of Physics is begun and continued through the year; elements of Mechanics of Solids and Fluids, and Acoustics the first term; Heat and Light the second term; Electricity and Magnetism the third term. The experimental demonstrations of each law and principle will be as complete as possible. Instruction in Physical Manipulation is given in the Laboratory, and students are there directed to verify the results obtained in the lecture-room.

The course in Chemistry, beginning with the second term of the Junior year, includes Theoretical and Practical Chemistry, Chemical Philosophy, the Chemistry of the elements occupying the second and third terms of this year, Organic Chemistry, the first term of the Senior year, and the principles of Chemical Analysis and laboratory practice, the second term. Experimental demonstrations in this department will be very full and complete. Lectures will be given on the application of Chemistry to arts and manufactures.

The study of Geology is rendered practical by excursions and studies in the field, the vicinity offering rich material for geological study and research.

A post graduate course will be provided for students desiring to do special work in Physics and Chemistry.

LATIN.

PROFESSOR EVANS.

Admission into the Freshman class is granted upon passing an examination in the first four books of Cæsar's Gallic War; seven of Cicero's Orations, including the four against Cataline; the first six books of the Æneid, with the Prose; and in the translating, into Latin, of English sentences based upon the vocabulary and principles of the first thirty lessons of Allen's introduction to Latin Composition.

In the college classes, we aim to make the student able to translate with readiness, at sight, any Latin based upon the vocabulary of the portion which are laid down in our course.

Remembering that an accurate and refined use of the English is not only an elegant accomplishment, but, also, the means of superior power, we aim, in the preparatory course, to make every Latin recitation an English language lesson, by requiring, from the beginning, the rendering of Latin idioms by pure English idioms, and by insisting upon a selection of the most fitting words for the rendering of Latin ideas; careful attention is also given the subject-matter—the historical and mythological references, the derivation, the construction, and the history of words, the comparison of Latin and English idioms and constructions, etc.

The work of the class-room is mostly on the recitation plan, in which the students render into English portions of the Latin text which they have studied, and into Latin, English that they have studied; also, at frequent intervals, they are required to translate, without previous study, some text which is selected for that purpose at the time.

During the sophomore year, the history of Latin Literature, the domestic, political, religious, social, and military customs of the Romans are studied and discussed, and the styles of the authors that have been read are compared.

Lectures are occasionally given on the Romans' mode of thinking, the development of the Latin language, its relation to other languages, and on other kindred subjects.

Works of reference: Harkness', Allen and Greenough's, and Gildersleeve's Latin Grammars, Harper's Andrews' Latin Lexicon, Anthon's and Smith's Classical Dictionaries, Ginn & Heath's Classical Atlas.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

PROFESSOR WHEELER.

It is our aim to bestow as much and as careful attention upon the modern languages as their importance in a liberal education demands. One year of German, with four recitations per week, is required of the students in the Classical Course; and it is no very difficult matter for those who have received the benefit of a drill in the ancient languages to acquire in this time the general principles of the language, and to read a few of the German literary masterpieces.

In the Philosophical Course the students begin a modern language earlier and advance more slowly; they have to acquire not only the language before them, but also the general principles of linguistic study. Our object is to secure three things: facility in translation at sight, and as wide a range of reading as is possible in the time allowed; some study of the literature of each language; and practice in translation from English into the foreign tongue, with a training of the ear by conversation. Emphasis is, however, placed on translation, a large vocabulary for reading being thought preferable to a limited facility in speaking. Conversational readiness is not the end and aim of linguistic study, and, while every effort is made to train the ear and tongue of students, we do not sacrifice to that the higher discipline and culture which result from the careful study of literary masterpieces, and from the habit of reproducing accurately and well, their thought in the student's own vernacular. The work for the past year has been as follows:

GERMAN.

FIRST TERM. { Grammar.
 { Boisen's Preparatory German Prose, 30 pages.

SECOND TERM. { Boisen's Prose, 120 pages.
 { Schiller's Wilhelm Tell.

THIRD TERM. { Einer muss heirathen.
 { Lessing's Minna von Barnhelm.
 { Goethe's Iphigenie auf Tauris.

Anecdotes, poems, and the little comedy of Eigensinn have been learned by heart, and there have been weekly translations from English into German.

FRENCH.

FIRST TERM. { Grammar.
Bocher's French Reader, begun.

SECOND TERM. { Bocher's French Reader, finished.
Saintine's Picciola, begun.

THIRD TERM. { Picciola, finished.
Corneille's Cid.

Weekly dictations, translations from English into French and the learning of anecdotes, poems, and a small manual of conversational phrases have supplemented this work.

Preparatory Department.

ELI DUNKLE, A. M., Principal.

This department is designed to prepare students for the regular courses of the college department. Students are also received who may wish to pursue elementary studies, even though they may have no intention of entering upon one of the higher courses.

Candidates for admission to this department must furnish satisfactory evidence of good character, and must pass examination in geography, arithmetic as far as percentage, English grammar as far as syntax, and all studies of the course lower than those which they wish to pursue.

NORMAL CLASS.

At the opening of the Fall and Spring terms, a class for teachers is formed, to which instruction is given in the branches commonly taught in country schools, and lectures will be delivered on the principles and duties of school work. Those who desire will also be admitted, if found qualified, to the regular classes in algebra, physiology, and botany.

GENERAL CATALOGUE

OF THE

OHIO UNIVERSITY.

FROM THE DATE OF ITS CHARTER IN

1804 to 1885.

ATHENS, OHIO.

Notice.

In the preparation of this catalogue, much difficulty has been experienced from the numerous dates to be consulted and the many items to be incorporated in its pages. Neither time nor labor, however, has been spared to insure the accuracy and completeness of the work. In several cases it has been exceedingly difficult to find traces of alumni; in others the information received came too late for use in this catalogue. Some errors will, also, doubtless be found, and a few omissions, though there is reason to believe, not many. It is hoped that the officers, alumni, and others, will be active and prompt in calling attention to errors, and supplying omissions for future editions.

Much information has been collected which does not appear in the catalogue, and much more is desired that it may be filed away in the University Library for future reference, and that it may be available at some time for a history of the University. Communications on the subject may be addressed to D. J. Evans, Professor of Latin, who has collected most of the material relating to Alumni.

Ohio University.*

The history of the Ohio University dates from the first years of the Republic. The ordinance providing for its existence and support was passed by the Continental Congress in July, 1787, while the Constitutional Convention was still in session in Philadelphia. The provision thus made preceded the first encroachment of civilization upon the vast wilderness west of the Alleghenies, and was an integral part of the foundation laid for the political and social fabric which has since been reared in the North west. It was secured through the agency of the Ohio Company. This association had been organized in Boston the previous year to purchase "lands in the Western Territory belonging to the United States, for the benefit of the Company, and to promote a settlement in that country." Its origin and success were mainly due to General Rufus Putnam and Rev. Manasseh Cutler, LL. D.,—the former having suggested and organized the Company and first having led the first band of emigrants to the banks of the Ohio; the latter having conducted the necessary negotiations with the general Government.

*While the writer of this sketch has availed himself of all the original sources of information that were accessible to him, he desires to acknowledge his obligations to Walker's excellent History of Athens County, Ohio.

RUFUS PUTNAM.

Rufus Putnam was a native of Sutton, Mass., and was born April 9, 1782. Having learned to read, and having by industry and self-denial obtained money enough to buy a spelling book and an arithmetic, he succeeded in laying the foundation of very respectable acquirements. At fifteen he became the apprentice of a millwright at Brookfield. Here he continued his studies as well as he was able, and by the time his apprenticeship expired had made himself a fair English scholar.

In 1757 he enlisted as a private soldier and fought for the British king during the French and Indian War. At the beginning of the Revolution he entered the American army with the commission of a lieutenant colonel. The next year he was promoted to the rank of colonel, and appointed engineer; and before the close of the war he was commissioned as a brigadier-general.

About this time he joined a number of military officers in a petition to Congress for a grant of land in the West; and was recognized as the most prominent and influential among them in the effort to secure their object. "The signers expect," he wrote to General Washington, "that I will pursue measures to have it laid before Congress." In his correspondence with General Washington upon this subject, appears, for the first time, the suggestion that the Government should provide endowments of land for education: "The whole tract is supposed to contain about seventeen million, four hundred and eighteen thousand, two hundred and forty acres, and will admit of seven hundred and fifty-six townships of six miles square, allowing to each township three thousand and forty acres for the ministry, schools, waste land, rivers, ponds and highways." [Letters to Washington, June 16, 1783.] The effort, however, failed.

For some years after this, General Putnam filled his position as State surveyor and land agent ; and when Congress passed, May 20, 1785, an ordinance providing for the survey of the public lands, he was offered the appointment of surveyor. This he declined, as he could not enter upon the duties of the office without some delay. His friend General Tupper was therefore appointed "with authority to perform the duties of office, until Mr. Putnam shall actually join the geographer and take the duties upon himself." [Journals of Congress, July 18, 1785.]

During the next winter Putnam and Tupper agreed to take steps toward the purchase of a large tract of Western land and the planting of a colony of emigrants on it. In pursuance of this agreement they published, January 25, 1786, an announcement of their purpose, and invited all persons who wished to join them in it to send delegates to meet at the Bunch of Grapes Tavern in Boston, Wednesday, March 1, 1786, "then and there to consider and determine on a general plan of association."

At the meeting held in consequence of this notice, General Putnam was chosen to preside. He was also made chairman of the committee to draft a plan of organization. His name stands among those of the first directors ; and when arrangements for emigration had been decided on, it was ordered "that General Rufus Putnam be the superintendent of all the business aforesaid, and he is to be obeyed and respected accordingly." By this action he was placed in the position of chief responsibility and power. He exercised the supreme authority on the westward journey, and in the affairs of the infant community, till the arrival of Governor St. Clair. He was the first judge of the court of common pleas appointed in the territory, and also the first judge of the courts of general quarter sessions. To him Dr. Cutler sent his draft for a charter of the University, and he was a trustee of the institution from the date of its origin to the close of his life. He died in Marietta, O., in 1824.

MANASSEH CUTLER.

Manasseh Cutler was born at Killingly, Conn., May 3, 1742. At the age of twenty three years he graduated at Yale, and at twenty-nine was settled over the church in Ipswich, Mass. He was soon recognized as a minister of ability and learning; but he became even more widely known as a man of science. As a botanist, especially, he attained considerable distinction. He was elected a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1781; a member of the Philosophical Society of Philadelphia in 1783; an honorary member of the Massachusetts Medical Society in 1784; received the degree of LL. D. from Yale college in 1789; was elected a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society in 1792, and was a representative in Congress in 1800-1802.

He appeared in Boston, March 1, 1786, as a delegate to the meeting for the formation of the Ohio Company; was appointed one of the committee to draft a plan of organization; was chosen one of the first directors; and was selected by the directors to contract with Congress for the purchase of land. He actually conducted the whole business to its conclusion; though, toward the last, it assumed such proportions that he desired Major Sargent, Secretary of the Company, who was at that time in New York, to share the responsibility. Accordingly, the contract was signed by both of them.

In 1788, after the first emigrants had made some progress in their settlement at Marietta, he spent a few weeks among them, and to the end of his life he never ceased to be their valued and influential counselor. He died in Massachusetts in 1820.

ORDINANCES OF CONGRESS.

The contract of the Ohio Company for the purchase of land from Congress, comprehended as a basis, the congressional provisions for the government of the Northwest Territory. When the ordinance for this purpose had been prepared, a copy of it was sent by the Committee to Dr. Cutler "with leave to make remarks and propose amendments." [Dr. Cutler's Journal, July 10, 1787.] He suggested several amendments, all of which were adopted, except one, and even in respect to that the ordinance was so modified as to conform more nearly to his wishes. He desired that emigrants to the Territory should not be subject to taxation by the national government, unless they enjoyed a full representation in Congress. The provision actually adopted was the result of a compromise.

A careful investigation of circumstances and a comparison of dates, renders it highly probable, if not certain, that the articles of compact with which the ordinance of 1787 concludes, were suggested, perhaps even written, by Dr. Cutler. They fell in with his designs, whereas it was plainly opposed to the immediate interest of the older States. "It was, of all things, the very means of rendering certain a vast emigration from her [New England's] own population to the West." [Webster's first speech on Foot's Resolution.] The evidence is especially strong that Dr. Cutler originated the third article, which declares that "religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and to the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged." This ordinance, of which Mr. Webster said in 1830, "I doubt whether one single law of any lawgiver, ancient or modern, has produced effects of more distinct, marked, and lasting character," was passed July 13, 1787. On the 17th, Dr. Cutler returned from Philadelphia, where he had spent a few days, and the next day entered upon the special business to which the Company had appointed him. On the 23d, just ten days after the passage of the ordinance providing for the government of the Territory, another ordinance was passed fixing terms of sale for the tract afterwards purchased by the Ohio Company, and empowering the Board of Treasury to contract. This ordinance not being entirely acceptable to Dr. Cutler, he and Major Sargent addressed a letter to the Board of Treasury, refusing to enter into contract, unless certain modifications were made in the terms. Finally, on the 27th, Congress passed a new ordinance, meeting the demands presented and insisted on with so much energy by Dr. Cutler.

In these ordinances it was provided that section sixteen in each township should be set apart for the support of schools; that section twenty-nine should be set apart for the support of religion; and that "not more than two complete townships should be given perpetually for the purposes of an University, to be laid off by the purchaser or purchasers as near the center as may be (so that the same shall be of good land), to be applied to the intended object by the Legislature of the State."

Such, its remote beginnings, was the origin of the Ohio University. It was the first example in the history of our country, of the establishment and endowment of an institution of learning by the direct agency of the general government. The honor of it belongs almost exclusively to Manasseh Cutler, and when we consider the influence which he has exerted, through the ordinances of July, 1787, upon the civilization of the Northwest, it is, perhaps, not too much to say, that to him, more than to any other individual, we are indebted for the prosperity, the freedom, and the intelligence of that extensive and populous region.

THE CONTRACT.

The contract was concluded October 27, 1787. By it the Ohio Company obtained optional possession of a body of and having for its southern boundary the Ohio river, for its eastern boundary the seventh range of townships, for its western boundary the eighteenth range of townships, and extending northward so far that a straight line running east and west would include a million and a half of acres, besides the several townships and sections reserved or appropriated to specific purposes. Only half this amount, however, was ever paid for and controlled by them.

No time was lost in making an actual settlement. On the seventh of April, 1788, a colony, under the leadership of General Putnam, landed at the confluence of the Ohio and Muskingum rivers. A month before this event, at a meeting of the Company held in Boston, the directors were requested "to pay as early attention as possible to the education of youth and the promotion of public worship among the first settlers." Dr. Cutler was accordingly authorized to employ a suitable person as instructor. He soon afterwards secured the services of Rev. Daniel Story, and a school was organized at Marietta the ensuing winter.

UNIVERSITY LANDS SELECTED.

In 1795 the lands to be devoted to the support of the University were located. The townships selected were numbers eight and nine in the fourteenth range, now called Athens and Alexander. Gen. Putnam, who felt a deep interest in the proposed institution, used his influence to secure settlers for the college lands. The first families removed to them in 1797, and fixed their residence on and near the present site of the town of Athens, the seat of the University. Two years later, Dec. 18, 1799, the Territorial Legislature appointed Rufus Putnam, Benjamin Ives Gilman, and Jonathan Stone, "to lay off in the most suitable place within the townships, a town plat which should contain a square for the college; also, lots suitable for house lots and gardens for a president, professors, tutors, etc., bordering on or encircled by spacious commons, and such a number of town lots adjoining the said commons and outlots as they shall think will be for the advantage of the University." This work having been done, a resolution was adopted by the Legislature, Dec. 6, 1800, approving and accepting it. In that year, also, Dr. Cutler sent to Gen. Putnam his draft of an incorporating act for the University. The first section gave to the institution the name of the American University, and in a letter which accompanied the draft, he said: "As the American Congress made the grant which is the foundation of the University, no name appeared to me more natural than American University. The sound is natural, easy and agreeable, and no name can be more respectable. There is a Columbia college and a Washington college, etc., already in the country, but no American college. I hope the name will not be altered."

It is evident from this passage that the founders of the University entertained large expectations of its future. The same fact is no less manifest from Dr. Cutler's comments on the eighth section of his draft. Speaking of a limitation of the income of the Legislature, he said: "Forty and fifty thousand dollars can not be too high, as it must be applied to one of the most useful and important purposes to society and to government. The sum sounds large, but no one can say to what amount the income of the endowments of this University may arrive in time. The income of Oxford and Cambridge, in England, is much greater."

TERRITORIAL ACT OF 1802, ESTABLISHING THE UNIVERSITY.

In January, 1802, an act based on the draft of Dr. Cutler, was passed, entitled "an act establishing an University in the town of Athens." (1 sess., 2 G. A. T. 161.) Section 1 established and located the University under the name of the American Western University. Section 2 provided for the perpetual existence of "a body politic and corporate, by the name and style of 'The President and Trustees of the American Western University.'" Section 3 appointed the trustees, to wit: Hon. Rufus Putnam, Joseph Gilman, Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., Paul Fearing, Rev. Daniel Story, Griffin Greene, Robert Oliver, Ebenezer Sproat, Dudley Woodbridge and Isaac Pierce. Section 11 vested in the board of trustees "townships eight and nine in the fourteenth range for the sole use, benefit and support of the University, with full powers and authority to divide, subdivide, settle and manage the same, by leasing. * * * Provided, That no lease shall be made for a longer term of time than twenty-one years." Section 14 exempted the college lands, with the buildings that might be erected thereon, from Territorial and State taxation.

ACT OF STATE LEGISLATURE ESTABLISHING THE UNIVERSITY.

Nothing was done to carry into effect the provisions of this act, and in 1804, February 18th, after the admission of Ohio into the Union, another act was passed, like the former in its main features, yet containing some important modifications (2 O. L. 205). Section 1 gave to the institution its present name, the Ohio University, and defined its object to be "the instruction of youth in all the various branches of liberal arts and sciences, the promotion of good education, virtue, religion and morality, and conferring all the degrees and literary honors granted in similar institututions." Section 2 provided for the corporate existence of the board of trustees, and made the Governor of the State a member of the board ex officio. Section 3 appointed as trustees Elijah Backus, Rufus Putnam, Dudley Woodbridge, Benjamin Tappan, Bazalier Wells, Nathaniel Massie, Daniel Symmes, Daniel Story, Samuel Carpenter, James Kilbourne, Griffin Greene, Sen., and Joseph Darlington. The number of trustees was not to be less than ten nor more than fifteen. At present the legal number is twenty-one, of whom the Governor of the State and the President of the University are members ex officio; the others are nominated by the board and confirmed by the General Assembly. No political or religious tests are applied. Vacancies occur only by death, resignation, removal or expulsion. Section 11 provided for the subdivision of the college lands into tracts of not less than eighty nor more than two hundred and forty acres; the valuation of them by three disinterested and judicious freeholders as in their original and unimproved state; and the leasing of the same "for the term of ninety years, renewable forever, on a yearly rent of six per centum on the amount of the valuation so made by the said freeholders; and the land so leased shall be subject to a revaluation at the expiration of thirty-five years, and to another revaluation at the expiration of sixty years, from the commencement of the term of each lease; which revaluation shall be conducted and made on the principles of the first, and the lessee shall pay a yearly rent of six per centum on the amount of the valuation so to be made; and forever thereafter at a yearly rent equal to and not exceeding six per centum of the amount of a valuation, to be made as afore said, at the expiration of the term of ninety years afore said. * * * * Provided, always, That the corporation shall have power to demand a further yearly rent on the said lands and tenements, not exceeding the amount of tax imposed on property of like description by the State."

Section 17 exempted the lands in the two townships, with the buildings on them, from all State taxes forever.

This act is the charter under which the institution was organized, and has since continued to operate.

The following year an act was passed (3 O. L. 79), modifying, in some respects, the law of 1804. In particular, it provided that the trustees should lease the lands for ninety-nine years, renewable forever, with a fixed annual rent of six per centum on the appraised valuation.

The college townships contain about 46,000 acres of land, of which a considerable portion has been sold in fee simple. The remainder is still vested in the University, but, being under perpetual lease, it can never yield more than a scanty revenue. To judge from present indications, all leases will be bought out as rapidly as possible.

ATHENS.

The town of Athens, in which the University is located, contains over three thousand inhabitants. It is about twenty-five miles from the Ohio river, on the line of the C., W. & B. railroad, and at the south-eastern terminus of the C., H. V. & T. railroad. The O. C. railroad also passes through, so that it is the most important railroad center in south-eastern Ohio, and easily accessible from every part of the State.

UNIVERSITY BUILDINGS.

The buildings are of brick, and eligibly situated in the south-eastern part of the town. The grounds contain about ten acres, more than one-third of which, lying in front, is covered with a handsome growth of trees. A portion of that lying in the rear is set apart for recreation. The buildings belonging to the University are four in number, all of brick. The middle building is eighty-two feet long, fifty feet wide, and three stories high. It was built in 1817, and entirely remodeled in 1881. It contains most of the recitation rooms, the laboratories, the library and the museum. The wings are each sixty feet long by forty feet wide, and three stories high. The east wing was completed in 1837; the west wing in 1839. The two upper stories of the former are used for dormitories, and the basement as a dwelling with which is connected a dining-room for the use of the College Boarding Club. The whole building has recently been thoroughly repaired and architecturally improved. The upper story of the west wing, which was formerly used as a chapel, is at present vacant. The remainder of the building is used for dormitories, with the exception of a single room set apart as a girls' study.

The new building stands on an eminence at the western side of the campus. In design it is unique and elegant; the material is brick with cut stone trimmings. Its dimensions are forty feet in width by seventy-six feet in length, and two stories in height. It has two fronts, one on the west toward Court street, which is the principal street of the town, and one on the east toward the main building. The first floor contains the chapel or assembly hall, two corridors and stairways, and a waiting-room. The second floor contains two society halls, with a committee-room attached to each. The building has been occupied since the Fall of 1883.

The original building, called the Academy, was erected in 1808-9. It stood east of the present buildings and extended beyond the present enclosure. It was a two-story brick building, about twenty four feet by thirty, containing one room on each floor. For ten years this was the only building belonging to the institution. After the college classes were organized, the lower room was occupied by the preparatory department, while the upper one accommodated the apparatus. The building was removed many years ago.

FIRST INSTRUCTION.

In this building the first instruction of the institution was given. It was opened for the reception of students, June 1st, 1809. The course of instruction laid down by the board, June 9, 1808, consisted of "the English, Latin, and Greek languages, mathematics, rhetoric, logic, geography, natural and moral philosophy."

Rev. Jacob Lindley was the only teacher, and on the first day but three pupils were present, John Perkins, Brewster Aigley, and Joel Abbott. Mr. Perkins, the last survivor of three, died a few years ago, a respected citizen of Athens.

JACOB LINDLEY.

Mr. Lindley, the preceptor, was born in Pennsylvania, June 13, 1774, graduated at Princeton in 1798, and was installed as pastor of the Presbyterian church in Waterford, O., in 1803. In 1805 he was appointed a trustee of the Ohio University. From 1808 to 1822 he was president of the board, and preceptor of the Academy; from 1822 to 1824, professor of rhetoric and moral philosophy; from 1824 to 1826, professor of mathematics. His connection with the board of trustees continued till 1838, when it was dissolved by reason of his removal to the State of Mississippi. He died in his native State, January 29th, 1857. In 1812 Artemas Sawyer, a graduate of Harvard, was employed as Mr. Lindley's assistant. In 1818 Joseph Dana was employed as professor of Latin and Greek.

The first degrees were conferred in 1815. Thomas Ewing and John Hunter, having completed the course of study, received, in that year, the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

THOMAS EWING.

Mr. Ewing's name stands first on the roll of alumni, not only for this institution, but for the whole of Western America. He was born in Ohio Co., Va., Dec. 28, 1789. In 1792 his father removed to Ohio, residing first on the Muskingum river, near Waterford, and afterward in what is now Ames Tp., Athens Co. Having learned to read, he eagerly devoured the contents of the collection of books then recently purchased by the contributions of the neighbors who had organized among themselves the "Western Library Association," and which formed the pioneer public library of Ohio. In 1808 he went to the Kanawha salt works, where he earned money enough to support himself for a few terms at the Ohio University. Whenever his means were exhausted, he returned to Virginia and earned more. In this way he succeeded in completing his course.

In the summer of 1815 he removed to Lancaster, O., where he studied law, and in 1816 was admitted to the bar. His abilities were at once recognized, and his progress to professional success and distinction was uninterrupted. From 1831 to 1837 he was U. S. Senator from Ohio, and took a distinguished part in the discussions of that stormy period. In 1841 he was appointed Secretary of the Treasury. In 1849 he was made Secretary of the Interior. On the death of President Taylor, he retired from the cabinet; but, Mr. Corwin being appointed Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Ewing re-entered the senate to complete Mr. Corwin's unexpired term. In 1851 he resumed the practice of law at Lancaster. He died Oct. 26, 1871.

FACULTY ORGANIZED.

A full faculty was organized in 1822. Rev. James Irvine, A. M., was chosen president, and professor of mathematics; Rev. Jacob Lindley, professor of rhetoric and moral philosophy; Joseph Dana, of languages; and Henry D. Ward, preceptor. The next year Rev. Samuel D. Hoge was appointed professor of natural sciences. The other presidents have been—Rev. Robert G. Wilson, D. D., 1824-39; Rev. William H. McGuffey, D. D., LL. D., 1839-43; Rev. Alfred Ryors, D. D., 1848-52; Rev. Solomon Howard, D. D., LL. D., 1852-72; William H. Scott, A. M., 1873-83; Charles W. Super, A. M. Ph. D., 1883 to the present time.

REV. JAMES IRVINE, A. M.

the first president of the Ohio University, was born in Washinton County, New York. Immediately after his graduation at Union College, he was elected professor of mathematics in the university in 1831; and in the following year became the president. Owing to ill-health, he was the next spring allowed leave of absence, and never returned to his post. He lived for a time in New York City, and was afterward settled as pastor over a Presbyterian congregation in West Hebron, New York.

REV. ROBERT G. WILSON, D. D.,

was a native of North Carolina, and was born Dec. 30, 1768. He graduated at Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa., and after studying theology, was ordained to preach May 22, 1794. He spent the first ten or eleven years of his ministry in Abbeville district, S. C.; removed thence, in 1805, to Chillicothe, O., where he was for nineteen years pastor of the Presbyterian Church. In 1824, he was elected president of the Ohio University, and during the next fourteen years administered its affairs with ability and success. In 1838, at the age of seventy, he resigned his position. He continued to preach for about nine years. The last four years of his life were spent in the family of his daughter, Mrs. Mary W. Irwin, at South Salem, O., where he died April 17, 1851.

REV. WILLIAM HOLMES MCGUFFEY, D. D., LL.D.,

was born in Washington county, Penn., September 23d, 1800. When he was but a child his parents removed to Trumbull county, Ohio. He prepared himself for college, and entered Washington College, Penn., of which Dr. Wiley was at the time President. In March, 1826, he was elected professor of ancient languages in Miami University, Ohio and, in 1832, he was transferred to the chair of Mental Philosophy.

He was licensed as a minister of the Presbyterian Church in 1829. In 1836 he was chosen President of Cincinnati College. This position he held until chosen President of the Ohio University in 1839.

In 1843 he returned to Cincinnati, and taught in the Woodward High School. In 1845 he was chosen Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Virginia, where he continued until his death, May 4th, 1873.

He was author of McGuffey's Eclectic Readers and Spelling Book, perhaps the most popular and useful books of the kind ever published. At the time of his death he was engaged in preparing for the press a work on Mental Science, but it was not left in shape for publication.

REV. ALFRED RYORS, D. D.

Rev. Alfrey Ryors, D.D., was born in Philadelphia, June 28, 1812. Being left an orphan at an early age, he was received into the family and select school of Rev. Robert Steel, D. D., at Abington, Penn. He graduated at Jefferson College, Penn., in 1835. The next year he was tutor in Lafayette College, and in May, 1836, he was elected Professor of Mathematics in the Ohio University. He entered upon the duties of his professorship the next autumn, and remained till 1844. In that year he was called to the same chair in Indiana State University. In 1848 he was elected president of the Ohio University, and filled the office for four years. In 1852 he resigned, and the following year became president of Indiana University. At the end of a year he accepted the chair of mathematics in Center College, Ky., where he remained until his death, May 8th, 1858.

REV. SOLOMON HOWARD, D. D., LL. D.,

was born in Cincinnati, November 11, 1811. At 22 he graduated at Augusta College, Kentucky. He was elected to a professorship in St. Charles College, Mo. He entered the Ohio Conference of the M. E. Church in 1835; was elected principal of the preparatory department of the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1843, and principal of Springfield High School in 1845. On leaving this position he became president of Springfield Female College, and in 1852 was elected president of the Ohio University. He retained this office until 1872, when, on account of ill-health, he resigned. He died at San Jose, Cal., June 9, 1873.

REV. WILLIAM H. SCOTT, LL. D.

See alumni record for class of '62.

CHARLES W. SUPER.

A few months after the resignation of President Scott, Professor Super, a graduate of Dickinson College, class of '66, and a member of the University faculty, was appointed acting president. At the regular meeting of the Board, in June, '84, he was duly elected president.

Since 1883 the degree of B. S. is no longer conferred regularly, that of B. Ph. taking its place, though it is not given for the same amount of work. The regular students are therefore classed as Philosophical and Classical.

In addition to the students above enumerated, there were usually some "irregulars," who have not been counted.

Alumni.

[The College Classes were first organized in 1820. Those who graduated previous to that time completed a full collegiate course, and from time to time received their degrees, though not always at the time or in the order of their departure from the University. We have followed the record, except in the case of Dr. Hemsstead, who it seems was the first to leave the University, though his diploma was not awarded until 1816, and there is no other record of his Bachelor's Degree until 1820. We give the date of the diploma as the proper date of the degree. The University was thrown open to ladies in 1871, and the first Alumna belongs to the class of 1873.]
